The Plaintiff, Jonathan Lee Riches (Plaintiff), proceeding pro se, brings this action pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983.¹ Plaintiff is an inmate at FCI-Williamsburg, and files this action in forma pauperis under 28 U.S.C. § 1915. Plaintiff seeks monetary damages against New York Times' Columnist, Thomas Friedman (Defendant) for alleged "civil rights violations." The complaint should be dismissed for failure to state a claim upon which relief may be granted.

Pro Se and In Forma Pauperis Review

Under established local procedure in this judicial district, a careful review has been made of the pro se complaint pursuant to the procedural provisions of 28 U.S.C. § 1915; 28 U.S.C. § 1915A; and the Prison Litigation Reform Act, Pub. L. No. 104-134, 110 Stat. 1321 (1996). This review has been conducted in light of the following precedents: Denton v. Hernandez, 504 U.S. 25 (1992); Neitzke v. Williams, 490 U.S. 319, 324-25 (1989);

¹Pursuant to the provisions of 28 U.S.C. §636(b)(1)(B), and Local Rule 73.02(B)(2)(d), D.S.C., the undersigned is authorized to review such complaints for relief and submit findings and recommendations to the District Court.

Haines v. Kerner, 404 U.S. 519 (1972); Nasim v. Warden, Md. House of Corr., 64 F.3d 951 (4th Cir. 1995) (en banc); Todd v. Baskerville, 712 F.2d 70 (4th Cir. 1983).

The complaint herein has been filed pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1915, which permits an indigent litigant to commence an action in federal court without prepaying the administrative costs of proceeding with the lawsuit. To protect against possible abuses of this privilege, the statute allows a district court to dismiss the case upon a finding that the action “fails to state a claim on which relief may be granted” or is “frivolous or malicious.” § 1915(e)(2)(B)(i), (ii). A finding of frivolity can be made where the complaint “lacks an arguable basis either in law or in fact.” Denton v. Hernandez, 504 U.S. at 31. Hence, under § 1915(e)(2)(B), a claim based on a meritless legal theory may be dismissed sua sponte. Neitzke v. Williams, 490 U.S. 319 (1989); Allison v. Kyle, 66 F.3d 71 (5th Cir. 1995).

This Court is required to liberally construe pro se documents, Estelle v. Gamble, 429 U.S. 97 (1976), holding them to a less stringent standard than those drafted by attorneys, Hughes v. Rowe, 449 U.S. 5, 9 (1980) (per curiam). Even under this less stringent standard, however, the pro se complaint is subject to summary dismissal. The mandated liberal construction afforded to pro se pleadings means that if the court can reasonably read the pleadings to state a valid claim on which the plaintiff could prevail, it should do so, but a district court may not rewrite a petition to include claims that were never presented, Barnett v. Hargett, 174 F.3d 1128, 1133 (10th Cir. 1999), or construct the plaintiff’s legal arguments for him, Small v. Endicott, 998 F.2d 411, 417-18 (7th Cir. 1993), or “conjure up questions never squarely presented” to the court, Beaudett v. City of Hampton, 775 F.2d 1274, 1278 (4th Cir. 1985). The requirement of liberal construction does not mean that the court can ignore a clear failure in the pleading to allege facts which set forth a claim currently cognizable in a federal district court. Weller v. Dep't of Soc. Servs., 901 F.2d 387, (4th Cir. 1990).

Background

Plaintiff's one paragraph complaint states, verbatim:

42 U.S.C. 1983. Slander and defamation of character on me. Defendant wrote articles about me critical of the Iranian war and future wars with Poland and left the phone # to FCI Williamsburg to reach me. Now I was placed illegally in solitary confinement, this is unconstitutional. FCI Williamsburg rolled up my New York times and beat me with them in my mind. I seek $7.5 million in damages for civil rights violations.

Discussion

In order to state a cause of action under 42 U.S.C. § 1983, a plaintiff must allege that: (1) the defendant(s) deprived him of a federal right, and (2) did so under color of state law. Gomez v. Toledo, 446 U.S. 635, 640 (1980). See also 42 U.S.C. § 1983. In the instant complaint, Plaintiff alleges that Defendant Friedman violated Plaintiff's federal constitutional rights by writing an article that resulted in Plaintiff being placed in solitary confinement and beaten in his "mind". Plaintiff seeks damages from the Defendant pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983 for this alleged constitutional violation.

However, the complaint clearly indicates that the Defendant is a private citizen employed as a columnist for the New York Times. As Defendant's actions were not discharged "under color of state law", he is not amenable to suit under § 1983, and is entitled to summary dismissal.

Recommendation

Accordingly, it is recommended that the District Court dismiss the complaint in the above-captioned case without prejudice and without issuance of service of process. See Denton v. Hernandez, 504 U.S. at 31; Neitzke v. Williams, 490 U.S. at 324-25; Todd v. Baskerville 712 F.2d at 74. Since the complaint filed in this case clearly fails to state a claim on which relief may be granted and is substantially frivolous, I also recommend that this case be deemed a “strike” for purposes of the “three strikes” rule of 28 U.S.C. § 1915(g). Plaintiff’s attention is directed to the important notice on the next page.

Objections must specifically identify the portions of the Report and Recommendation to which objections are made and the basis for such objections. Colonial Life & Acc. Ins. Co.*, 416 F.3d 310 (4th Cir. 2005).

Specific written objections must be filed within ten (10) days of the date of service of this Report and Recommendation. 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1); Fed. R. Civ. P. 72(b). Filing by mail pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 5 may be accomplished by mailing objections to:
